

A REFLECTION ON LIFE AND DEATH

God loves the world, in other words us, to the very end. Also in the Eucharist he comes to serve us, to give us life which saves us from death and fills us with hope. The Apostle Paul exhorts: "Set your minds on things that are above, not on things that are on earth"; on love for God and for our neighbor, instead of on our own needs. That we need not concern ourselves with what is lacking here on earth, but with the treasure above; not with what serves us, but with what truly serves...That He, in whom there is life, salvation, resurrection and joy, may be enough for us. That we will be servants in accordance with his heart: not functionaries who lend their service, but beloved children who give their lives for the world.
